Chris and Brian: Oh, Chris, I am so sorry to hear about Chuck's death. I don't know if you know, but Chuck and I continued our relationship with weekly visits over each weekend until 2001 and thereafter spoke on the telephone frequently. I had not gotten a call from him lately nor had I called him because I have been recovering from an accident since Spring. Had I known he was ill, I would have immediately driven to Suffolk to see him. I wondered why I did not receive his usual birthday card in June (he always sent me the sweetest cards for Christmas and my birthday and I to him). When my mother died in November, he was sincere in his sympathy. We had put the past well behind us and remembered the good times with fondness and laughter. I still cared deeply for him even though things didn't work out between us and he always told me he loved me each time we were together or talked on the phone. As vanity will have it, I never visited him in later years because I wanted him to remember me as the young woman I had been and not the senior citizen I've become. He seemed to understand. I wish now I had made a different choice. Please let me know if I can do anything for you down here. I would be happy to help you pack up the house if you will let me help. I know what a difficult task it is since I've just been through it and you have the added difficulty of being out of town. My telephone number is 757-587-4465 and the cell is 757-274-5772.
